

Greenwaste it

Most weedy groundcovers and climbers can't be composted at home as they grow easily and spread from stem or root pieces.

Small amounts can be put into black plastic bags in the sun to dry out and rot down. Large amounts can be disposed of at a commercial greenwaste facility, where high temperatures during composting will kill them.

If you take weedy material to a greenwaste facility for disposal, make sure that it can't fall out along the way!

Contact your local council for information on greenwaste disposal sites.
